

I feel small ISPs like Sonic are the key to my small but successful business. I am in the business of providing personal services directly to my clients--services that a mega-agency can never and will never provide. Likewise Sonic's service cannot be matched by a large corporate ISP--it is just impossible. It would be a crime if the mega ISPs are able to put Sonic out of business. Sonic is the best technology provider I have ever had the pleasure of subscribing to. They are unmatched in customer service and in the quality of their products and services. My business would not exist without the reliability and access that Sonic provides me. PLEASE do not let the giants squash my preferred ISP.
